THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF FINANCE (SHRI SATPAL MAHARAJ): (a) and (b) Concept of "unjust enrichment" is applicable in the cases of indirect taxes where the incidence of such taxes is ultimately borne by consumer including customs/excise duty, service tax, cess etc.

MODVAT on returnable glass bottles

711. SHRI V. NARAYANASAMY: Will the Minister of FINANCE be pleased to state:

(a) whether the Ministry had at any stage made MODVAT available on returnable glass bottles;

(b) if so, the reasons for its withdrawal;

(c) the reasons for not introducing MODVAT on investment in returnable glass bottles and plastic crates used by the aerated water industry; and

(d) the monetary benefit to the aerated water industry if MODVAT is made available on investment in returnable glass bottles and plastic crates used by the aerated water industry?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF FINANCE (SHRI SATPAL MAHARAJ): (a) to (c) As per the Central Excise Rules governing MODVAT scheme, credit of duty paid on packing materials or containers, is not permissible if the cost of such packing materials or containers is not included in the value of the final product in terms of the provisions of Section 4 of the Central Excise Act. Prior to 1.3.94, aerated waters were chargeable to excise duty at specific rates and the question of determination of value under said section 4 did not arise, Therefore, the bar in availing Modvat credit on packing materials or containers did not apply. With introduction of ad-valorem rate of duty on aerated waters with effect from 1.3.94, the provisions of Section 4 became operational in respect of aerated waters. Accordingly, credit of duty paid on glass bottles and crates was admissible only if the value of such bottles and crates was included in the value of the aerated waters. This fact was required to be ascertained in each case of claim for MODVAT credit. In any case, with the issue of notification No. 36/95-CE (N.T.), credit of duty paid on crates and glass bottles is not permissible with effect from 17.11.1995.

(d) In veiw of (a), (b) & (c) above, the question does not arise.
